

You Have Been Tested for Measles. What Can You Expect?

What Do I Do Now?

- You will be given a mask to wear home.
- Go straight home and wait for your results. Remember, you are potentially infectious.
You should stay home and avoid public areas until 4 days after the start of any rash, or until your test results come back and are negative.
- Avoid crowds and contact with infants, pregnant women, and seriously ill persons.
- Your doctor's office will call clinic if symptoms worsen.
- If you have any appointments scheduled while waiting for your results, postpone them unless absolutely necessary. If you must go to a clinic visit, please call ahead to notify the clinic.
- Your doctor's office will contact you with results.
